Vol. 4 CHAMBERLAIN HIGH SCHOOL, TAMPA, FLORIDA APRIL 14, 1960 No. 10

Sequoia New Name Of Literary Magazine

Hear, oh big Chiefs! On this day of April 14, 1960, the newest member of the publications department will make its great Indian name known. From this day hence, the "Papoose" shall be called the Sequoya.

D. J. Cook, CHS junior, submitted the chosen name. He came across it while he was looking through some Indian names. Sequoya gave the alphabet to the Indians so they would have a system of writing for their sounds; hence they had a system of written communication. The staff wanted an Indian name that was not too lengthy but yet had a melodious sound.

The Sequoya will make its debut today when it will be distributed to the Chiefs, free of charge, in their English classes. It will consist of poems, short stories, book reviews, essays, and features. It will also be illustrated. There will be thirty-two pages in this issue of the magazine.

'Stage Door' Is Senior Class Play

"Stage Door," the senior class play to be put on Friday, May 13, is in the working stages. This play, written by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman, is staged in three acts. It deals with a girls' rooming house in New York City called the Footlights Club. In the play the trials and tribulations of getting a place in the theater are revealed.

The cast includes: Olga Brandt, Donna Blanton; Mattie, Peggy Powers; Mary Harper, Eileen Stanton; Mary McCure, Judy Lynn Prince; Bernice Niemeyer, Sharon Humbert; Madleine Vaucain, Joan Caraway; Judith Canfield, Sandra

This year the staff had no class time to prepare the literary magazine for publication. Next year there will be a special English class with the main purpose of writing for the Sequoya. It will be credited as a regular class though. Contributions will still be accepted from the CHS students. The Sequoya will come twice a year starting next year.

J. D. Mason served as editor-in-chief of the Sequoya. Other staff members were Alberta Davidson, Assistant Editor; Jimmy Jeffers, Art Editor; Julie Cooper, Literary Editor; Judy Chambers, Circulation Manager; Parker Rakocy, Nancy Knight, Publicity Chairmen; and Nancy Vaughn, Feature Editor. Miss Joanne Hecker is faculty adviser of the Sequoya.

Four Boys Enter Projects In Fair

Bobby Hall, senior, George Rick-er, sophomore; Allen Burdett, junior; and Bill Claustre, senior, will represent CHS in the Florida State Science Fair which will be held from April 7-9.

These boys' projects were among the five hundred projects that were entered in the County Fair. Only twenty were eligible for the State Fair.

Projects for the State Fair must fall into two sciences, the biological or physical sciences. Botany, zoology, and medical science are classified under Biological science,
